FRUIT JAR BANK IS ROBBED

New York Banks Are Bunco Victims

Fast Workers Tap Big Town Banks for Half Million

Combine Telegraph Wires and Bank Code and Put Deal Over.

SIX BANKS TRIMMED

Each Is Multited In Sum of $75,000 Through Fake Messages.

DENVER, Sept. 5.—(A)—A pair of bunco men, one working out of Denver and the other in New York swindled six New York City banks out of $450,000 last Saturday police were advised today.

Six New York banks, correspondents for a like number of Denver banks, were the victims. Each contributed $75,000 to the scheme of the bunco workers.

Through the use of unauthorized signatures, the six New York banks were ordered to place $75,000 to the credit of the Telluride Bank in the Chase National Bank in New York City. Each of the telegrams an unauthorized signature of official of the Denver banks.

All wires were in code of the American Bankers Association and were sent through various branch offices of the Western Union by the Denver member of the firm.

Police have but scant clues to go on in the matter, and the financial institutions of a metropolitan city are pondering the ways of the sharper from the small town.

No Salaries for Tax Volunteers

Legislators Can't Draw Pay On Two Jobs Auditor Holds.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 5.—(A)—The four legislators who volunteered for duty to aid in enforcing the fall income tax act accepted assignments without raising the question of remuneration, David A. Gates, commissioner of revenues, declared today, commenting upon the refusal of the state auditor to issue warrants to A. B. Pierce, of Ashley county, G. E. Brown, of Ripon, Lawrence Wilson, of Camden, and Henry Smith, of Pine Bluff.

Vouchers of $200 for Brown and $175 for Smith were presented to State Auditor Humphrey yesterday and turned down, for the reason that the payment of salaries to a legislator for two public jobs was unconstitutional.

Gates said the question of salaries for the four men was not discussed at the time they went to work but said he thought they could be legally paid under the "extra help" ruling of the attorney general.

Wilson, who was in Texarkana on business, told the Associated Press by long distance phone that had never presented a warrant for the payment of any salary and did not expect to do so.

Scout Saves Sister But Loses Own Life

Lower Baby Sister To Ground In Sheet While Flames Sear His Body.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 5. (A) James Hopper, 13, Boy Scout and hero, paid with his own life for his determination to save his nine-year-old baby sister, Bertha, from the flames which destroyed the home. The father, an elder sister and the baby were burned.

The boy awoke to find his room surrounded by flames. He dashed across the hall to the room of the baby girl and lowered her to the ground in a rope of bed sheets. She was badly burned before he arrived.

The father, J. E. Hopper, a street crumpling stairs, only avenue of car conductor, and his wife stood helplessly by the foot of the escape, and watched their home go up. The father was seriously burned in efforts to go up the stairs to the children's rooms.

Thursday Shows Increase In Star Straw Vote Ballot

Heaviest Vote of Any Single Day Checked By Counters.

TO CLOSE THIS WEEK

Results Be Re-checked and Final Result Announced Next Week.

Eighty-seven votes were cast Wednesday night and Thursday morning for the busiest twenty-four hours since The Star started its straw ballot on Sunday amusements.

The newest tabulation, Thursday noon, showed previous results virtually unchanged, with Sunday amusements holding a two-to-one lead in the city, but suffering a sharp and decisive defeat in the country.

The totals at noon Thursday were:

CITY	For 185;	Against 77
COUNTRY	For 6;	Against 28
TOTAL	For 191;	Against 105.

The voting since the last count, on Wednesday, was as follows: In the city, 48 for, and 20 against; in the country, 3 for, and 16 against; total, 51 for, 36 against.

A new development in the grand total column, however, was indicated with the total votes in favor of Sunday amusement now commanding a lead of slightly less than two to one. This is the first time in the history of the straw ballot that the "yes" votes have failed to hold better than two to one, even with city and country combined.

Girl's Heroic Act Saves Brother

Tot, 10, Snatches Little One From Path of Log Truck.

HELENA, Sept. 5.—(A)—Louise Lawrence, 10, today made little over her rescue of her three-year-old brother from the path of an onrushing log truck.

The two were playing on the banks of the river, near a boat landing. A truck and trailer, bearing a log weighing several tons failed to negotiate the ascent up the river bank and started backward. The driver leaped when his brakes failed to hold, leaving the heavy machine uncontrollable.

Charles, Louise' baby brother, was playing directly in the path of the truck. She snatched him almost from under the very wheels and escaped without injury to either of them. The truck crashed at the foot of the delivry, a twisted mass of wreckage.

Scouts Holding Recruiting Week

Want To Enlist Every Boy of Proper Age In Scout Troops of City.

At last Scoutmaster John Martin announced that the week September 5-12 would be recruiting week and a recruiting Scout will be on duty at the Arkansas National Gas offices in the First National Bank building here during this period to give prospective recruits such information as may be desired.

The Scouts want every boy in Hope between the ages of 10 and 18 years to enlist during this period and make Hope Scout Troop the best in the state. The local unit already ranks well up in Scout craft and in all the tests in which a Scout must be proficient, but they want additional members and hope to cure them during this recruiting period.

To Audit Books of Deceased Officer

Appointee Asks Audit Before Taking Over Affairs of Office.

LEWISVILLE, Ark., Sept. 5.—During funeral services for J. W. Miller, LaFayette county sheriff, who shot himself to death in an outhouse at his home here early Tuesday afternoon plans were being made for an audit of the books of the office before the new sheriff takes over his post.

Robert H. Duty, a planter of Bradley, Ark., was appointed to fill out the unexpired term of Miller by Governor Harvey Parnell Wednesday. Duty was defeated by Miller in the last election for sheriff.

H. H. Clayton, office deputy of Miller, revealed Wednesday that the sheriff had told him on the day prior to his death that he owed the state about $4000, and that he was preparing to go to the state capital to pay the sum in full.

Clayton was serving in the office of sheriff Wednesday pending the arrival of an auditor from Little Rock. Duty will take over the post as soon as the audit is completed, Clayton said.

"Sheriff Miller told me the day prior to his death that he was in arrears on his accounts due the state to the extent of about $4000," Clayton said late Wednesday. "However the sheriff said that he was prepared to pay the account to the state."

"He was preparing to go to Little Rock this week to make the payment. Stories of a huge shortage in Miller's accounts were circulated here but a check shows them to be false. It is my belief that injuries received in an auto-accident in Louisiana in August were the cause of his act."

Clayton said that it was his understanding that an auditor from Little Rock was to arrive in Lewisville late Wednesday night to prepare to go over the books. Clayton was not certain whether the state or the county was to conduct the audit.

Funeral services for Miller were held from the home here shortly after noon Wednesday and the body was taken to Chalhyberne Springs, La., about 30 miles south of here, for burial Wednesday afternoon.

He is survived by seven children his mother, three sisters, and two brothers. He was a Mason and a member of the Baptist church. Prior to taking office as sheriff, Miller made his home at Bradley.

Miller was found shot to death early Tuesday, one bullet having inflicted a scalp wound and another piercing his brain, a short time after the shots were heard.

Plans On Foot To Place Former Governor In U. S. Senate.

COPELAND TO RESIGN

Rumored Copeland Will Make Way for Governor By Resigning.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(A)—The New York World today will say that a quiet move has been started to place former governor and democratic presidential nominee Alfred E. Smith in the United States Senate and thus keep him in the political limelight for eventualities.

In view of suggestions made, Mayor Walker is expected to appoint Riley S. Copeland, present senator, as head of the newly created New York City sanitary commission and his acceptance of the position would entail his retirement from the senate.

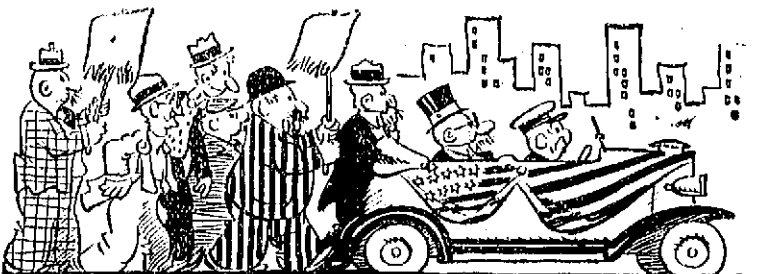

In that event, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, democrat, would be asked to name former Governor Smith to the seat vacated by Copeland. He would serve Copeland's unexpired term, the newspaper will say.

Fort Smith Sees End of Long Drouth

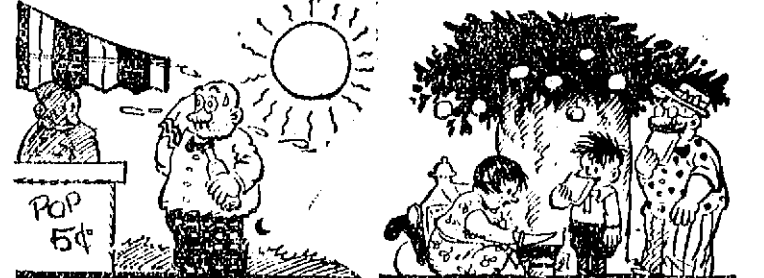

FORT SMITH, Sept. 5.—(A)—A two months' drouth was ended here today by a general though not heavy rainfall.

The rain began falling last night and continued today, benefitting crops and bringing relief to cattlemen through this section where water scarcity had been a real problem.

Suicide Fails and Youth Is Facing Trial

Hempstead county authorities are awaiting complete recovery of Clifton Likes, Texarkana youth, aged 17, 312 Texas avenue, before setting date of his examing trial on charges of forgery, they said Wednesday.

Likes attempted suicide by swallowing lye Friday when he learned that Texarkana, Ark., officers, armed with a warrant, were searching for him.

He was removed to his home the following day.

Hempstead officials say Likes is charged with forging the name of a Hope woman to a check.

Secrecy Hovers Over Plane Wreck

Officials of Santa Fe Deny Sending Out Report of Finding.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 5.—(A)—Confusion and secrecy are the two outstanding developments today surrounding the facts of the crash of the City of San Francisco, Trans-Continental Air transport, which was reported by company officials yesterday as having been found wrecked in the Black Wash region of the Arizona-New Mexico border, its five passengers and three crew members dead.

The chief dispatcher of the Santa Fe railroad told the Associated Press early today that he had talked by wire with the station agent at Perea and at Gallup and that both had denied circulating a report of the finding of the plane.

"I don't know anything about it," the Perea operator told the dispatcher, and the Gallup agent, on the wire, declared he had not sent out any report that a mail carrier had reported finding the plane to him.

They didn't believe in banks so the savings of a lifetime were placed in a fruit jar and hidden in the barn.

A tidy sum it was, for two elderly people whose wants and needs were few—$1197.50—but today they don't have any savings, and Pompey LeMay, Henria, his wife, and Grace Chambless, LeMay's step-daughter, and one John Young are in jail, facing robbery charges in connection with the disappearance of the above sum from the possession of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Chambless, operators of a store at old Lewisville, on the Hope-Lewisville highway.

Both the LeMay and Chambless families have been in this section for many years and both are widely known. Not many months ago Arthur, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chambless, married Grace, step-daughter of Mr. LeMay. He confided to her, during the honeymoon period, the hiding place of his parents' wealth. Later, when he and she had agreed to disagree and she had returned to her step-parental home, it is alleged she confided to one John Young, a friend, the secret of the hidden wealth.

Officers say she not only told John about it but on a personally conducted expedition showed it to him, with the result that shortly after it disappeared.

Alabama Fugitive Is Arrested Here

W. D. Stafford, of Birmingham, Ala., was picked up here Wednesday afternoon by officer Jim Bearden and is being held to await arrival of authorities from Alabama. He is wanted there, it is reported, on charges of disposing of mortgaged property and removing a mortgaged car from the state.

Stafford, it is alleged, came here several weeks ago on a visit to his brother, living near here. He was driving a new four-door Chevrolet sedan, and after a short visit left to go to Seminole, Okla.

Local officers were advised that he was wanted in Alabama and kept a sharp look-out for him and when he came in yesterday afternoon was promptly picked up and the Birmingham authorities notified. He will be held until their arrival which will be Friday afternoon, officers say.

On Peace and War

SENATOR ROBINSON said in his Labor Day speech at Fort Smith:

"A sound policy of military and naval preparedness is the United States' best guarantee for the security of her people. Our government," he added, "is unpopular among the nations of the world. Passion, prejudice and ignorance are powerful factors in the affairs of men. Animosity and possible strife easily come through them, and a sound military and naval policy is the very cheapest insurance this government can have against an attack by any foe."

That was the voice of common-sense Americanism speaking. Senator Robinson will be applauded everywhere among right-thinking people.

More and more we are coming to think of peace not as a destination but as a journey. We must be protected all along the route.

Every now and then someone rises to challenge the morality of war. We heard a woman speaker, here in Hope last spring, intimate that she wouldn't let her boy be a soldier. She made an impassioned plea against all war. On either side of us were other members of the American Legion—the speech didn't make much of a dent.

The fallacy of much of the talk about outlawing war is that too many people pretend to look upon it as an isolated factor in society. They might just as well talk about eliminating the bad tempers of men.

To us, the most inspiring sight is a minister of the gospel who at some time or other has seen service in war. As a chaplain perhaps. There are several of them in Hope—and Hope is fortunate on account of that. Because there is no more sublime example of the mystery of life than this mixing of religion—the gospel of peace—and war—one of the concrete facts of life.

The man who faces facts without flinching, who does the best by his patriotism, his learning and his conscience—that man is a good citizen in any country. We may not ever have world-wide peace, but we can have the kind of citizens who will promote peace. And that was who Senator Robinson was talking to last Labor Day.

Why American Cities Grow

The following article—an excellent editorial—is one of a series entitled "Philosophy of Empire Building," prepared by Fenner & Beane, of New Orleans:

Water and water-rail transportation on the one hand, and flood protection for its local trade territory on the other are the two most appealing developments to the citizens of Helena, Arkansas.

With the Federal Barge Line has come a far more favorable freight rate situation to Helena. "We can now draw canned goods from the Pacific Coast at a saving of $250 a car in transportation costs, and steel from Pittsburgh, when the Ohio shall have been opened to all-the-year navigation, will move to Helena at any time at a saving of $4.50 a ton," is the way one citizen explains the case.

The all-the-year way to Pittsburgh will be open in a few weeks now.

Helena has invested some $400,000 in a modern barge and rail coordinating terminal, thus proving its faith in permanent inland water transportation.

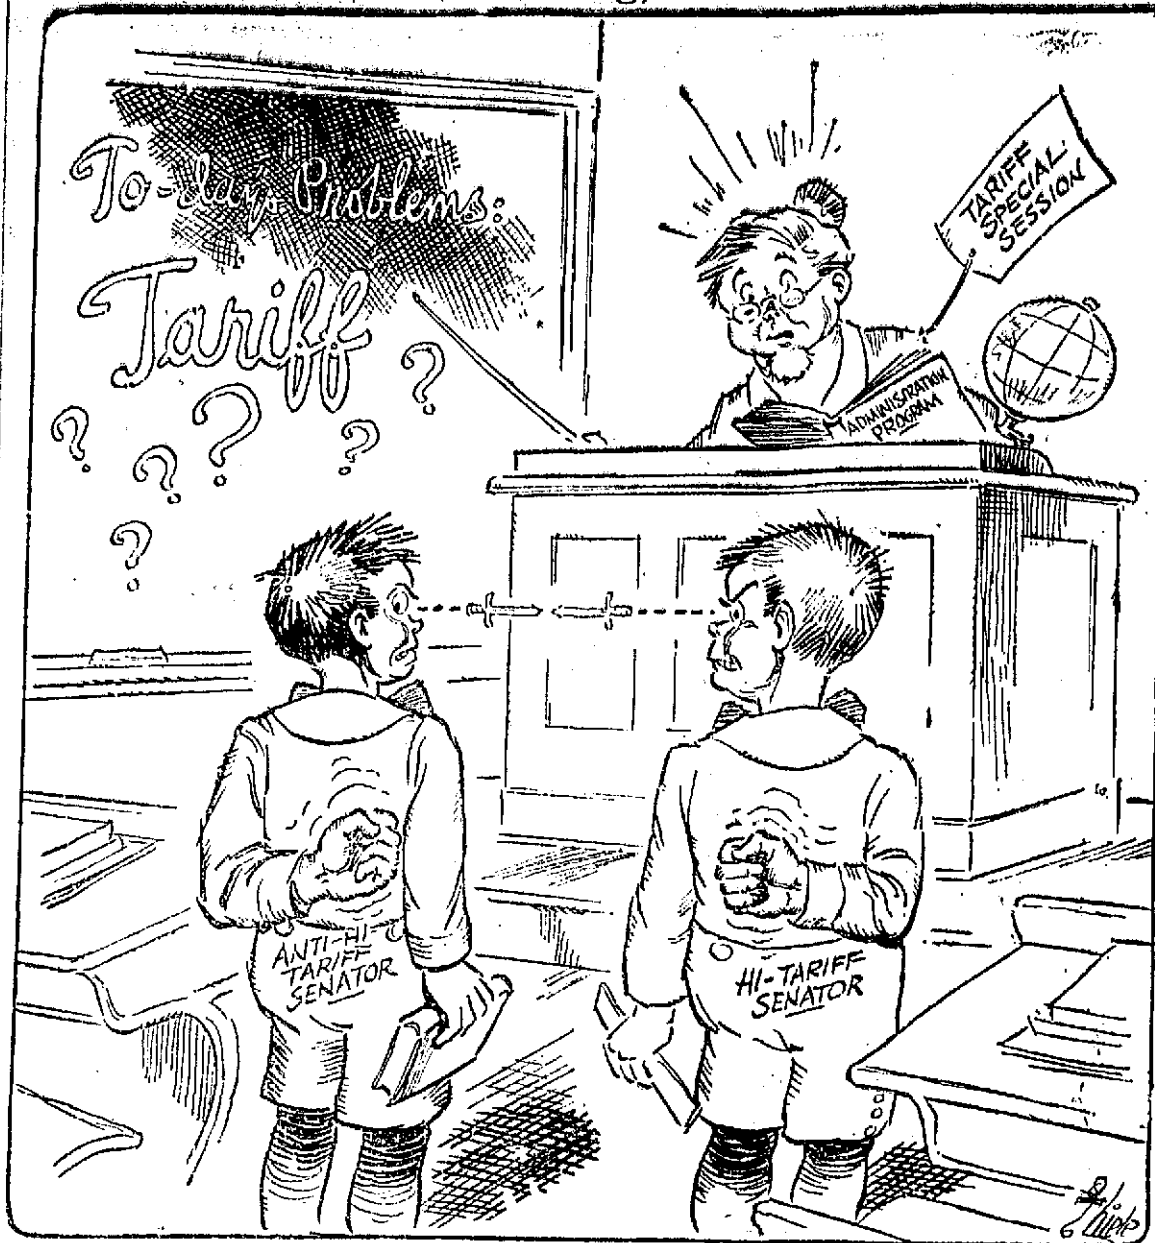

Its people were quick to sense the vast difference in economy between the modern freight carriers and the old time steamboat.

When complete flood control comes, rapid development of the most fertile lowlands of Arkansas and Mississippi will come, and Helena, using the water as well as the rail carriers, expects an enormous increase in its commerce, an early doubling of its population and a material enhancement of its real estate values.

The Best One This Week.

"Down in Mississippi," says John T. Hancy, "we had a seedy-looking lawyer, who was a real philosopher. Noticing a hole in the seat of this lawyer's pants, I once said to him: 'Judge, you should have a patch put over that hole in your pants.' And I received this reply to my suggestion: 'Not on your life. A hole might be the result of an accident, but a patch is conclusive evidence of poverty.'—Morrilton Democrat.

"Good Morning, Teacher!"

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Some persons still wonder why anyone wants to become vice president of the United States.

But after reading the most recent report of the secretary of the senate it becomes a little easier to understand.

One refers particularly to those seven pages of fine type wherein is listed the expense incident to the maintenance of the vice presidential automobile, which is one of the various expenses of government.

The allowance is one of $4,000 and the expense account referred to eats up all but $29.91 of that sum. If this cost of maintenance were general, of course, hardly anyone would be able to afford automobiles and most of the factories would have to close down.

One pities poor Mr. Dawes, besides understanding more easily why he would have been willing to take over the vice presidential chair again, for he now operates his car at his own expense in London and the expense account about to be detailed is one from Mr. Dawes rather than from his successor, Mr. Curtis, covering the fiscal year 1927-28.

It appears that the garages and repair shops had to do just about 182 separate and distinct things to this automobile in 12 months, each one of which things cost money.

Of course, the largest item of expense is the chauffeur, who by act of Congress is paid $2220 a year. But oh, how the little things do mount up. Here are a few of the supply items.

One bar of soap	-----	$ 1.75
Ten yards of cheesecloth	-----	1.50
One chauffeur's uniform, with extra pair of trousers	-----	70.00
One chauffeur's cap	-----	5.00
One whisk broom	-----	.60
One pair gloves	-----	2.50
One chamolai skin	-----	1.50
One cushion	-----	1.50
One pair goggles	-----	2.50
Wiping cloths	-----	.90
Cleaning pressing and repairing uniform and overcoat	-----	11.50

Merely keeping the car clean, excluding attention to the motor, and counting polish, paint, wiping cloths, and so on, cost a total for the year of $261.35. This includes the 60-cent whisk broom.

In September, it was decided to reproduce the government seal on the rear doors of the automobile and the bill for that was $50.

BARBS

A California woman mayor has ruled against the sale of liquor to minors. That's a good measure; wonder how she happened to think of it.

Once upon a time a newspaper published a scathing denunciation of the city council because the ladies were catching their skirts on loose nails in the sidewalks.

Using your head is one way of staying ahead.

When the wife begins to describe your vacation to the neighbors, you begin to really wonder where you were all that time.

Chairs have been provided now in the library at Sing Sing so the prisoners can read sitting down. Still, that's not such a great inducement.

Arkansas Shows Vegetable Growth

Yield In State for Season Closely Approaches Leading States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—Bunched carrots, turnips and beets, formerly humble vegetables of the home garden, have become of large commercial importance in recent years, according to the bureau of agricultural economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The carrot, for example, regarded heretofore largely as a tid-bit for city horses and as a soup ingredient, has jumped in production from 3,184,000 bushels in 1923 to 6,028,000 bushels in 1928.

Arkansas has increased her yield of bunched vegetables each year until it ranks closely to the largest producing states—Texas, California, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Better appreciation of vegetables in the diet by the American people was given as the principal reason for the greater production of bunched vegetables.

Educator Asserts Modern Youth Is Good Parent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—The so-called sheiks and flappers of today are making better parents than their parents, according to Miss Justina M. Rich, dean of women at Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, a visitor here.

"Outh today handles his problems as well as we could or did, only he's frank about them," she said.

"Complexities of today are a greater challenge to his self control, but they are not submerging his character."

Dairy Teams Show At Annual Fair

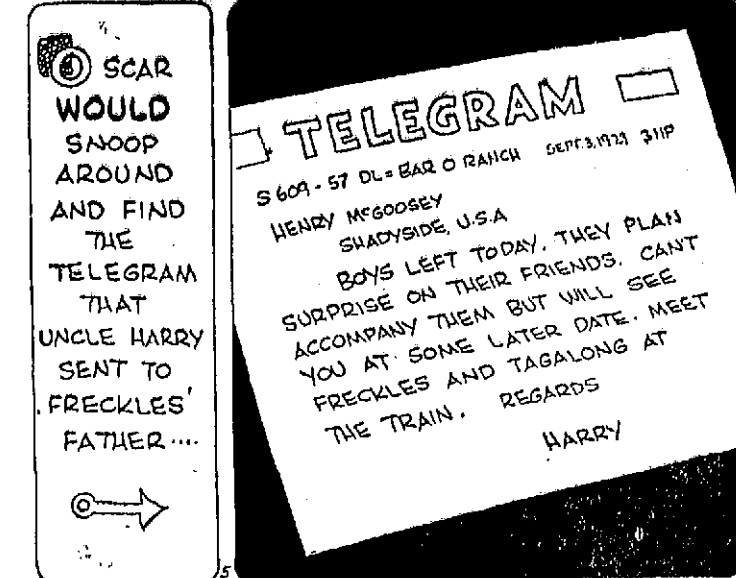

Each 4-H Club In County Expected To Enter Team.

A different type of educational entertainment is promised for the Southwest Arkansas Fair in the form of the Dairy Demonstration teams. Each 4-H club in Hempstead county will be expected to enter a team of two boys each, and this team will select one of the following subjects on dairying as their demonstration:

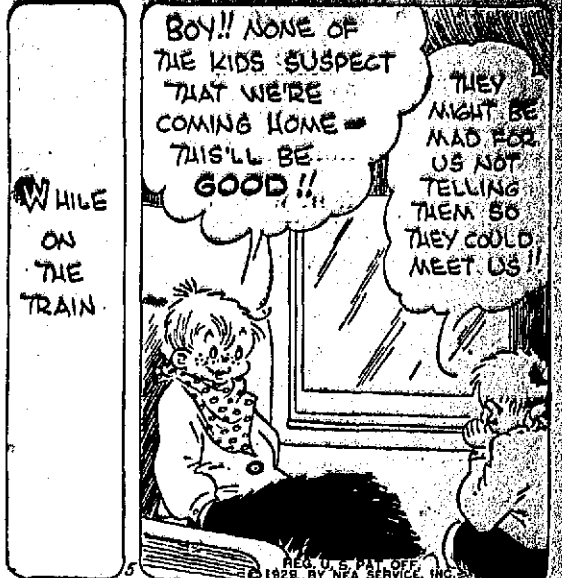

1. Running the Babcock test and keeping record sheets.
2. Filling the dairy calf or cow for the show ring.
3. Production of clean milk.
4. Selecting a profitable dairy cow.
5. Feeding the dairy cow.

All teams entering the contest will be expected to put on their demonstrations, and the five highest scoring teams will be selected to put on their demonstrations before the grand stand. Friday beginning at 10:30 o'clock the judges will select the three high scoring teams which will be awarded cash prizes of $12, $8 and $5 respectively. These prizes were made possible through the cooperation of the Hope Star.

According to County Agent Lynn L. Smith these demonstrations offer one of the finest opportunities to learn about dairying which will be offered during the fair. Since an opportunity will be given anyone who cares to see and hear these teams as they compete for the prizes, everyone is urged to pay this feature special attention by being present at the time mentioned.

W. Homer Pigg, secretary manager of the Southwest Arkansas Fair wishes to announce that provisions will be made for seating those who desire to hear these teams work.

questioning they broke down and confessed, later signing written confessions and admitting the guilt of all parties to the robbery. Of the $1197.50 stolen, only about $200 was recovered, though officers believe the remainder to be deposited in Texas banks and are pursuing an investigation along that line.

Had Marked Money
Mrs. Chambliss, it appears, had marked with her initials several of the bills in the fruit jar, the lettering being done with an indelible pencil. Officers say when LeMay was searched the sum of $20 in one dollar bills was found in his pockets, three of them bearing Mrs. Chambliss' initials.

LeMay's Confession
After securing confessions from LeMay and his wife and daughter officers arrested Young. He is held in jail at Hope while the LeMays were carried to Magnolia, the Lewisville jail not being in use because of extensive repairs and alterations being made. They will be given preliminary hearings at Lewisville Friday morning at ten o'clock.

To Deputy Sheriff Frank Turner and Jim Bearden goes credit for the quick unraveling of this knotted thread of crime and to their cool-headed, efficient action is attributed the fact that there wasn't power burned near Dooley's Ferry when they stepped up to the LeMays and informed them they were under arrest.

Young, following arrest and incarceration, refuses to discuss the matter, remaining silent when questioned. He has a court record in Hempstead county, having been previously arrested on charges of violating the prohibition laws.

Ocie Nix Taken To Texas Penitentiary

Starts Serving Life Sentence for Poison Murder of Girl Wife.

TEXARKANA, Sept. 5.—Ocie Nix, 22-year-old Malta farmer convicted of the murder of his 17-year-old wife, Vinitia Nix, by a district court jury on July 1, Wednesday took what will probably be his last look at Bowie county, where most of his life has been spent.

For jurors ruled that Nix must spend the remainder of his life in the Texas state prison for poisoning his spouse and Wednesday he started his journey to Huntsville.

Nix was one of eight men started from the county jail at Boston to the penitentiary to start serving sentences. They were in custody of Bud Russell, veteran prison guard, who arrived early Wednesday on his periodic trip to Bowie county.

The other seven were short term prisoners. Most of them were negroes.

Nix was arrested late in June after his wife died in convulsions at their farm home. He confessed to District Attorney R. G. Waters that he gave her poison in a cap-burger containing poison away, complaining of the taste.

The indictment and trial of Nix followed within a week, the jury deliberating about three hours before sentencing him to life imprisonment. The state had asked the death penalty.

The only defense in Nix's behalf was given by his father who testified that Ocie had suffered a paralytic stroke and that it had affected him mentally.

Let Us Be Your Hatter

The Innocent Cheat

by Ruth Dewey Graves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL - POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Helen Page feels unhappy when the girls at the Spang boarding school tease her about being Miss Simplicity just to please her hand-some guardian, Leonard Brent, who supplies her with ample funds and smart frocks from her by a woman friend whom Helen has never met. The fact that he has never permitted her to meet any of his friends worries her, too. But she will not question his reason even though her roommate, Shallmar Morris, taunts her about shrinking back without speaking one afternoon at the Ritz when they see him there with a striking looking woman. Shallmar accuses Helen of being in love with Brent! calls her a fool to give up smoking, dancing and parties for him, and ends by saying that "There's something wrong with the picture."

Next time Brent takes her out to dinner, Helen begs him to tell her about her parentage and early life, but he refuses until after she graduates. She begs, and then objects to going home early when he tells her he has an engagement. He is stern, and tells her "There is one thing, you must never do."

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER III
Helen averted a little, standing herself against the impact of dancing couples. She was to be dismayed to speak. What had she done, what had her impetuous words meant to her guardian to cause him to end their dance abruptly and

On an instinct he did not stop to analyze, he stooped to pick it up. There was a string attached to it that led around the old man's neck.

He spoke so sternly to her?

While she searched her mind for an answer Brent led her back to their table. She sat limply in her chair, waiting for him to explain his admonition.

He started to speak but the waiter arrived with the melon and Brent held his tongue. But the instant they were alone the words came quick and precise.

"Interference," he said, "is one thing that I will not tolerate."

"Interference?" Helen whispered the word with difficulty.

"You must never question me," Brent went on relentlessly.

"But Leno, I didn't."

"Please, Helen. You must listen to me. You have been groomed at Miss Spang's for a role that requires implicit faith in my decisions. It will be necessary at all times for you to accept my word and my judgment without question. Your own wishes will be secondary to mine." He paused and regarded her intently. Helen sat quite still.

"If you think that will be impossible—that you cannot submerge your own opinions and desires—we will not go on. You may choose your own path. But you must decide now."

It was brutal. No one, not even the girl before him, knew so well as he what her answer would be. For years he had taken an evil satisfaction in his domination of her: evil because he knew it was based on her tremendous capacity for loving, her inability to curb or limit her affection.

It seemed to her that he questioned her loyalty even to give her the choice he named. Why, she belonged to him. Her life was his. She lived for no one or nothing else.

"I'm sorry," she said simply.

"Then please remember what I have told you. And now eat your melon like a good girl."

But Helen could not eat it. The very strength of her that sent her devotion out to him in whole-hearted measure refused the humiliation of being treated like a child. It wounded her but she forgot it, though the melon remained untouched.

Brent was too selfish to notice. He ate his own melon with relish. Before they were served again he suggested another dance. Helen declined and he did not urge. He could read her mind as though it were a book. Best to turn the whole incident off lightly, make her forget it.

So he set himself to entertain her, and when they arrived back at the school Helen was again in a rapturous state of mind. It would soon be the end of June and she would go away with Leno—somewhere—to be with him every day. It would be sweet to have nothing to do but live for him, nothing else to think of but ways to delight him, to keep him with her always. And perhaps, some day, he would discover that she was a woman and not a child any longer.

Brent drove back to New York, satisfied that he could pull the strings to her heart as he wished. But the heart itself. There he was troubled. It seemed so easy for her to be a good kid. Had he overdone it, wiped out forever the chance to shape her destiny to suit his own ends?

His uneasiness was reflected in the reckless speed with which he drove through the night.

"But damn it all, she's perfect," he said aloud, as though he had to justify his course to his inner judgment. "She's as convincing as a ewe lamb, absolutely above suspi-

The Cubs' Right-Handers

Now that the question of what the right-handed Cub batsmen will do to those tough-me-not-sou'-paws, Messrs. Grove and Walberg, has been pretty well settled, here is a question that is sure to bother every world series dopester: how will the heavy-hitting Mackian right-handers fare against right-handed pitchers of the ilk of Bush, Root and Malone?

If you asked us we would say not so well. The Athletics have not had to face the best right-hander in the American League because he happens to be George Earnshaw, who is on their side. But, against good right-handers like Wesley Ferrell of the Indians and Sam Grey of the Browns, the Macks have not bumped the apple so very vigorously.

Mack has a well-balanced array of clouters, but in the right-handed hitters, Foxx, Simmons and Bing Miller, is vested a large portion of the Athletics' punch.

Starting Pitchers

Bush probably will be named to start for the Cubs, with Grove pitching against him. Would it be wiser for Joe McCarthy to save Bush for the second game, when the Cubs probably will bat against Walberg? This question is based on the belief of this writer that the Cubs may be able to beat Walberg, and the hunch that the Chicago team will not bruise Mr. Grove's offerings with much enthusiasm.

Walberg has great days, of course, and may have one of them in the world series. But we have seen him pitch several times when he was easy for right and left-

Molla Breaks Age's Fetters And Beats Young Britisher

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . . By Laufer

ASK the folks around Rockford, Ill., who is the greatest pitcher on the Chicago Cubs' staff and they will tell you Harold Gust Carlson. Marley Root, Guy Bush and Percy Malone are good, too, they will add.

For the folks in Illinois are pennant crazy now that the Cubs at last seem to have corralled the National League flag. And the folks from Rockford will all be at the world series to root for their townsman, Harold Gust, to come through as the hero of the big games.

Six in a Row

Carlson has been a great help to Joe McCarthy in the Cubs' successful quest this year. Although his wins do not rival those of Bush, Root and Malone, he is putting on a fast finish. His last six victories have been successive and he has been beaten only twice this summer.

Carlson has been playing professional ball since 1912, and this promises to be his first world series. Starting out for Rockford in the old W-L League, he was picked off by the Milwaukee American Association club in 1914. In 1917 he came up to the majors with the Pittsburgh Pirates, where he stuck for seven years.

Pirates Shipped Him

At Pittsburgh, he continually gave promise of becoming a star pitcher. But somehow he never came any further than the promise, for the Pirates finally gave him up as a bad job and shipped him back to the Texas League.

Here he untracked himself, winning 20 games and losing 10. The desperate Phillies took a gamble and brought him back in 1924. Carlson starred ever since.

In 1927 the Cubs, in rebuilding for a pennant, sent Tony Kaufmann and Jimmy Cooney to the Phils for the slim right-hander.

HAROLD CARLSON

HELP TO CUBS IN BAGGING A PENNANT

THIS IS HIS THIRTEENTH YEAR IN THE MAJORS AND IT LOOKS LIKE HIS FIRST WORLD SERIES

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

When Joe McCarthy was a kid he was nearly drowned in a pond near Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia—Bet he wishes Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw had been swimming with him that day—Maybe he could have submerged them and made the North Side safe for world series—In the last 10 years only 22 golfers have been victorious in the 30 championship tournaments—making it appear as though the favorites have it—Bill Knebelkamp, proxy of the Louisville A. A.'s, sets aside a day every year when the fans can come in free—Actors in Los Angeles went on strike because so many college football men worked in a picture, "The Forward Pass"—Nate Barragar, captain of U. S. C., was one of the cast, but he said he didn't know there was a strike until he read about it in the papers—The professional boys were interfering with their careers—also their rolls and margarine.

This Fellow Earnshaw

Probably the greatest pitching that will be seen in this series will come from George Earnshaw, the Mack right-hander, who is one of the best ball benders working today—and that takes in Grove, too. It may sound like heresy to assert that Earnshaw's fireball is faster than the smokes that Lefty Grove rifles in there, but it's the truth. Earnshaw's only fault is his occasional yen to heave the ball at random. He has pretty well mastered this failing, however. If he is right, the Cubs' Murderers' Row may lose a whole lot of homicidal tendencies.

Second Wind

Now and again Limbo yawns and out walks some forgotten athlete of other years to show a flash of ancient form and make the current stars look silly.

Race horses have been known to come to life suddenly after years on a dust diet. It is done in baseball, too, when some Quinn or Faber pitchers a two-bit game. The other day in tennis the phenomenon occurred when Molla Bjurstedt Mallory hopped off the dusty shelf and spanked the dashing young Betty Nuthall at Forest Hills.

Such happenings cannot be predicted. The favorites in golf, tennis, baseball and boxing usually have the situation well in hand. But what a tale 'twould be if Chuck Evans, after lying dormant since 1920, should throw a flock of birds into the faces of the amateur golfers at Del Monte! There's always a chance. You can't always tell a cantaloupe by its complexion.

Her Mad Search for ROMANCE

The Story of a Discontented Wife

THOUGH she knew her husband loved her, life was dull for Ruby. She wanted attention, flattery, some one to worship her beauty.

Then came Jerry Draco, gay, charming, handsome—with dark eyes that glowed with adoration, and invited romance.

At first it was just a harmless flirtation—a make-believe romance. But one night, while alone together, Jerry suddenly caught her in his arms.

"You are beautiful," he whispered.

"I want you. Come away with me, sweetheart. I'll give you everything—money, clothes, jewels, good times. It will mean happiness for us both. Say you'll come."

As his words echoed in her brain, the thought of the dull existence she lived with her quiet, serious-minded husband roused her spirit of revolt. Why not snatch this chance for happiness while it lay within her reach?

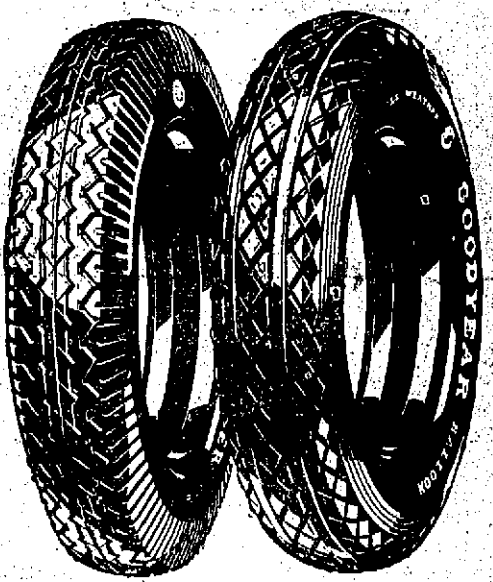

"I'll go with you—anywhere," she whispered, as she yielded her lips to his. But the next instant, following Jerry's startled gaze, Ruby whirled. In the doorway stood her husband—his face white, his eyes gleaming with wrath. Fascinated with fear they watched him as he advanced slowly, and—

Hitting rocks, holes and road obstructions bends in your tires—stretches the cords inside the casing. Come in—we'll prove it before your eyes—with samples of best regular cord and SUPERTWIST.

When stretched beyond their limit, these cords break. That causes bruises, flat tires, blowouts.
